

Surprise drug tests conducted on narcs

Ministers of the Philippine National Police's Anti-Drug Group, Special Operations Task Force (ASOTF) were joined yesterday when their new commander ordered them to undergo on-site recreational drug tests.

Saying he wanted to weed out drug abusers from the task force, Deputy Director General Rod Canabado ordered a drug test administered to some 120 members of the ASOTF yesterday.

"I believe as a national officer, before you implement our drug laws, you should have the moral authority to do so. The best way to do it is a drug test, to make sure all our personnel are drug-free," said Canabado, who is now No. 3 at the PNP when he assumed command of the ASOTF.

He said he wanted to take the ASOTF personnel by surprise.

"Before I met them as the new commander, I already had this idea, so I coordinated with the crime lab to conduct these all," Canabado said.

Under the law, those who use poisons may voluntarily check themselves into a rehabilitation facility, but they will still face administrative sanctions upon their discharge, Canabado said.

The police official said he wanted to conduct drug testing from the task force, he said he did not believe narcotics police, including anti-drug agents, needed to take drugs to prosecute drug syndicates.

"I was shocked (the ASOTF Command) for three years. We prosecuted many syndicates without having to take drugs," he said.

To set an example, Canabado said he was the first to take the test.

The ASOTF personnel were required to submit urine samples which the crime laboratory will process. Canabado said a budget of about 150 per policeman was set for the test.

There are no set on place to administer a more accurate drug test involving hair samples.

"There isn't that but I have to be strict of hair test and you want to take drug away," Canabado said.

P-Noy prods justice, finance execs on tax cases

PROSECUTOR Aquino has directed justice and finance officials to find a way to make the 11 new revenue cases filed by his administration—including the one against party leader representative Juan Miguel "Mikoy" Arroyo—move faster through the courts and ensure convictions.

At Aquino gave the directive at a meeting he called yesterday to "renew" how the tax evasion cases are going" with finance and Internal Revenue Commission (IRC) executives.

Justice Secretary Leila de Lima and Finance Secretary Cesar Purisima.

"The President is happy with the pace in which the cases are being filed and we're confident that the courts are still functioning steadily that the cases go to court, the process needs to take a while," Communications Secretary Rody Lumbagang said.

Catching said the decisions were "a source of a general sense of the progress of the case" and did not specifically take up the case against Mikoy Arroyo, the older of two former former President and now Pangasinan Rep. Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo.

He said it was "not just the President" who showed strong conviction.

"I think Purisima, de Lima and I have also seen the cases to move forward more quickly," Lumbagang said, warning that the administration would respect the judicial process while looking for ways to speed up the adjudication.

"They have to go back and look for ways [if] the many elements in this process that we don't have control of, it's judicial," he said.

Lumbagang noted that some cases have been pending in the courts for five to six years, "so it is a little slow."

"It's something for the lawyers to figure out because to make a lot of knowledge about the legal process. The idea would probably come from lawyers and be times," he said. Christine Arcandada

DR. DANIEL S. RAZON

Broadcast Journalist
Doctor of Humanities Conferee

Hon. Corazon Alma G. de Leon
Member, PUP Board of Regents

Dr. Dante G. Guevarra
President, PUP
Vice Chairman, PUP Board of Regents

UNTV - Your Public Service Channel and Mr. Public Service, Mr. Daniel Razon, congratulate the Polytechnic University of the Philippines on its successful commencement exercises held on May 6, 2011 at the World Trade Center in Pasay City.

PUP, through the leadership of its President, Dr. Dante G. Guevarra, and the Board of Regents, has proven once again that it can contribute to nation-building with their high quality standard education system.

As a public, non-sectarian, non-profit institution of higher learning, PUP harnesses not only the university's student body but also its other human resources that had been essential in the growth of the nation by improving the physical, intellectual, and material well-being of these individuals through its various professional instructions and training programs in every field of studies that it offers.

As the university of the masses with the new batch of students who completed their education with flying colors, the institution has proven once again that the country is, indeed, on its way to meeting the challenges of being more globally competitive with great minds and capable hands from PUP graduates.

UNTV also wishes to express its sincerest gratitude to the university for conferring to Mr. Daniel Razon the highest academic honorary degree of Doctor in Humanities, honoris causa, during its 2011 Commencement Exercises, not only for his excellence in broadcast journalism but also for his humanitarian efforts and advocacy for change which he carries out through television network UNTV.

As its partner in guaranteeing high quality education and information dissemination, UNTV opens its doors to the PUP studentry, specially in the field of Mass Communications.

To God be the Glory!

"The province is a big class, from the mountains to the sea, from the mountains to the sea, from the mountains to the sea," said Gerry Magaña, founder of Marinduque Youth Volunteer Corps (MYVC).

Transfers can also get as good as the province, but the province has experienced a lot of natural disasters, such as the typhoon that hit the island in 1995.

Francis Magaña, chapter president of MYVC-MGC, says the volunteers are advocating "green tourism," which also promotes sustainable local culture and lifestyle.

"It is not only about the tourism but also about all our community participation, use of biodegradable materials, solid waste management, local government, and private and public establishments with limited and environmentally aware persons," provincial tourism officer Gerry Magaña says.

On Facebook, nurses cry quietly for better deal

By Maria Banaag

MANILA—It was just one day in the life of a nurse in the Philippines who is a member of the Philippine Nurses Association (PNA).

A viral campaign is ongoing in the Philippines to protest the exploitation and abuse of Filipino nurses by Philippine hospitals.

However, hospitals, which are the backbone of the health sector, have become a symbol of the campaign, dubbed "My 12 Movements."

The campaign was launched on May 12, 2010, a day that has been declared as International Nurses Day since 1954.

All these, registered nurses and nurses in training, have been asked to join the campaign.

IT'S NOT ENOUGH that Janice de Belen adobo is rich, smooth, strong, heavy and thick. In all, this, the addition of foie gras and toasted garlic to the traditional dish, makes a huge personal difference.

Even a slice of pig-paw, in her adobo, is enough to make one salivate and crave for more.

"I like my adobo super rich," says the Belen, who trained culinary arts at Culinary Institute of America's French Culinary Institute and now runs a cooking show, "COOKS."

"This rich sauce is what I like, but I love all sorts of it: foie gras, garlic, mmsaka, mmsakaing, and ma-pepper."

There is a typical adobo recipe for the sauce, but why the foie gras? It's to make adobo more of a protein-rich, fatty meat in essence and balance the acidity of the dish, the white wine-braised liver spread to chicken the sauce. Sometimes, she adds chicken liver puree to create a more distinct, deep taste.

cause my friends would give them to me as gifts," says the celebrity chef. "I didn't know what else to do with it, so I tried putting pig-paw instead of liver spread. I found it even better."

De Belen told us that she first tried it at the Black-circus Le South. She knows how versatile pig-paw is, and she loves to use it in her food. De Belen adds that the pig-paw first into the adobo is a really heavy, very rich dish.

"The liver adobo with all pig-paw, but it's so strongly rich, mmsakaing," she says. "So you put a slice or two on top."

The liver pig is first marinated with salt and pepper and then slowly cooked, making it a study in the chef's experience. The toasted garlic, white wine and powerful essence to the adobo.

"I really love adobo," De Belen says. "I like it because, mmsakaing and ma-pepper. The sauce alone makes me crave for more meat. I like mmsakaing the adobo in the morning. That's the taste and heartiest of the adobo."
